Current Responsibility

David Byron is a consulting actuary with the Health Practice in Milliman's Seattle office. He joined the firm in 2020.

Professional Work Experience

David has 18 years of experience working with payers, providers, and employers as a health actuary. His recent work includes:

- CMS/CMMI alternative payment models, including MSSP, ACO REACH, Primary Care First, CHART, AHEAD
- Engagement with multiple stakeholder groups such as states, health systems, ACOs, and payers
- Provider contracting and reimbursement
- ACO risk management and financial forecasting
- Value-based care

Prior to joining Milliman, David worked at a major employee-benefit consulting company where he advised large employers and evaluated the financial impacts associated with benefit design, budgeting, forecasting, and reserving.

David brings a payer-perspective from his experience working at a regional Blue Cross Blue Shield plan. His work supported one of the country's largest and longest-running private payment reform initiatives, which still exists today. In addition, he managed the individual and small group market medical portfolio, including design, innovation, and pricing.
