

PAMELA M. PELIZZARI

MPH

Principal

pamela.pelizzari@milliman.com

+1 646 473 3229

Current Responsibility

Pamela Pelizzari is a principal with the New York office of Milliman. She joined the firm in 2014.

Professional Work Experience

Pamela has a broad background in integrated delivery system administration and healthcare payment reform. She has worked in both clinical and payer settings and has extensive experience in alternative risk contracting strategies.

Pamela has particular expertise in analysis of healthcare claims and the development of episode-based payment definitions and benchmarking methodologies. She also has experience implementing both prospective and retrospective payment methodologies, including developing gainsharing methodologies, claims adjudication techniques, and quality monitoring programs.

Prior to joining Milliman, Pamela held a technical advisory role in the U.S. federal government. She was responsible for developing and implementing novel payment methodologies to transform healthcare delivery and payment nationwide. Previously, Pamela worked at an academic medical center, building consensus for redesigning care delivery among diverse stakeholders including physicians, administrators, and patient advocates.

Education

ScB, Applied Mathematics, Brown University

AB, Community Health, Brown University

MPH, Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health